2009 Funding & Membership Fees

Dear Colleagues,

While our proposal for 2009 under the European Commission's Fundamental Rights and Citizenship Programme has been successful, we would like to draw your attention to the fact that this funding is co-financed (to the extent of 20% of the total grant requested) by the membership fees paid by all of you which amount to €500 (minimum) per annum. Also, this grant is conditional on the provision of a bank guarantee to the amount of € 47.500 which is set at 50% of the total grant awarded.

Your membership fees are crucial! Without them, we cannot guarantee an efficient functioning of our organisation and especially of the ENOC Secretariat. With this in mind, we ask all our members to kindly proceed to the payment of membership fees, as soon as possible.

Update on member institutions' activities

The Greek Ombudsman for Children has set up its first Youth Advisory Panel

The Greek Ombudsman, following the example of other European Ombuds offices, has set up its first Youth Advisory Panel that aims to offer advice on issues within his competence. During its first pilot period of operation, the Panel consists of 15 boys and 15 girls aged 13-17 years old, who were selected with a draw among 420 teenagers from all over Greece, who sent their applications, following an open invitation. Foreign children, children with disabilities and children in care were included in the Panel. Their term will last for one year and it can be renewed after evaluation of their participation. They will meet with the Ombudsman 3-4 times per year and in the meantime they will all communicate via internet or in other ways. An electronic forum has been created so that members of the Panel as well as other youngsters, who had applied to become members of it, can communicate and exchange their news and opinions on matters of common interest.

During the first meeting of the Panel, in Athens, its members became familiar with the functions of the Ombudsman, they were introduced to their role and they decided the thematic issues on which they will be focusing during the year. Their second meeting took place at a SOS Children's Village in Thessaloniki and was followed by an open discussion in which 130 pupils from 60 schools of Northern Greece presented their opinions on "The role of pupils in setting up and implementing school rules".

The event was videotaped and a summary of pupils' proposals along with a 5 minutes video report was published on the Ombudsman website and sent around to schools and educational authorities.

At the end of the year it is expected that the main proposals of the Youth Advisory Panel will be sent by the Ombudsman to the competent Ministries and authorities.

The Irish Ombudsman for Children launches the Separated Children Seeking Asylum (SCSA) Project

The OCO hosted an Open Day Event for separated children seeking asylum on the 16th of April. The office visited the 9 hostels and residential centres in the greater Dublin area that currently provide accommodation to SCSA, and invited all the young people to the office.

(continues)

Of the 128 young people currently living in these accommodation centres, 47 young people participated in the day.

It was a great success and was an opportunity to raise awareness about the role and function of the office, as well as to further inform the young people about the OCO action oriented project on SCSA, and to begin the selection process for the projects advisory group.

The project is aimed at:

- facilitating the identification of key issues by separated children;
- together with the children and young people, to explore initiatives aimed at improving those issues;
- developing recommendations for relevant authorities where required.

More complete projects aims and objectives will be developed together with the projects advisory group, but the project will ensure that we get a better sense of what it is like to be a SCSA in Ireland today, and involve these YP in trying to influence change.
